Ari Luxenberg is a Senior Vice President of Business Affairs for Paramount Television where he is responsible for negotiating deals on behalf of the studio to hire actors, writers, directors, producers and other key elements for various television shows, including “Jack Ryan” on Amazon, “The Haunting” on Netflix, and various other projects in development. Paramount Television is also the studio behind the shows “13 Reasons Why” and “Maniac” on Netflix, and “The Alienist” on TNT.

Prior to joining Paramount Television, Ari was a Director of Legal Affairs at Warner Bros. Television where he served in a general counsel capacity for the shows he was responsible for, including “The Leftovers” on HBO, “The Middle” on ABC, and “Blindspot” on NBC.

Far more importantly, Ari is a life-long Gator, getting his start at Galen Hall Football Camp (where at age 7 Coach Hall bestowed him with an orange whistle [probably for completing 10 jumping-jacks in a row without passing out on the Swamp astro-turf in the July heat]) and Lon Kruger Basketball Camp ... eventually attending UF and becoming involved in Student Government and serving as President of Florida Cicerones as a senior (sadly no orange whistles were bestowed for this accomplishment).
